Memorandum by the Director of Central Intelligence

1. By memorandum of 12 March 1946 to the Director of Central Intelligence (Enclosure "B"), Mr. McCormack suggested that the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board be brought under the Director of Central Intelligence for policy supervision, and that the Central Intelligence Group undertake a study of the program of Joint Army-Navy Intelligence Studies with a view to making recommendations for the future planning and direction of the program.

1. At the suggestion of the Special Assistant to the Secretary of State in charge of Research and Intelligence, and in conformity with paragraph 3-b of the President's letter of 22 January 1946, the Central Intelligence Group will conduct a survey of the work of the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board, in order to make recommendations for its most effective contribution to a coordinated program of intelligence related to the national security.

2. The purpose and scope of the survey will be:

a. To study the organization and function of the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board in relation to the coordination of the intelligence program in order to determine whether any change in the supervision and control of the J.I.S.P.B. is advisable and, if so, how the interests of the Joint Chiefs of Staff may be properly safeguarded.

b. To study the function of JANIS (Joint Army-Navy Intelligence Studies) and its relationship to the coordinated intelligence program in order to determine:

March 12, 1946

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE:

Subject: Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board.

1. Various problems in connection with the Joint Army-Navy Intelligence Studies were discussed at a recent meeting of the Joint Intelligence Committee. It was apparent that the Army and Navy intelligence organizations may not be in a position to meet the requirements of the Joint Staff Planners, because of limitations of personnel, and that it may become necessary to review those requirements in the light of overall intelligence requirements, in order to determine priorities.

2. These and other considerations suggest that the various JANIS problems should be reviewed by the Central Intelligence Group.

3. As the participants in J.I.S.P.B. now include agencies other than the Armed Services, its activities appear to fall within the scope of the National Intelligence Authority, and it is believed that coordination of its work would be more effective if performed under the auspices of the Director of Central Intelligence.

4. It is therefore recommended that the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board be brought under the Director of Central Intelligence for policy supervision; that the Director of Central Intelligence designate a director of the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board; and that the Central Intelligence Group undertake a study of the future of JANIS, with a view to making recommendations to the Director of Central Intelligence or to the National Intelligence Authority, as may be appropriate, for a schedule of JANIS papers, a prospectus of their content, determination of what agencies shall participate in the preparation of such papers and allocation of responsibility to such agencies.

5. Attached for information of your Planning Staff is a memorandum prepared by Lieut. Edward L. Ullman, Executive Secretary of J.I.S.P.B., entitled "The Future of JANIS".*

1. I have reexamined my memorandum to Admiral Souers, above subject, dated 10 April, in the light of comments at the council meeting this morning.

2. I am not going to change my memorandum of 10 April.

3. Comments on the draft directive are as follows:

a. With regard to the last sentence of paragraph 3, the Joint Intelligence Staff is considered a proper staff contact for the Central Planning Staff for purposes of informal coordination with JIC. However, on reconsideration it has been decided that it would be more appropriate to designate the Secretary, JIC, as the contact point.

b. With regard to paragraph 4, the objection which the operating agencies have to furnishing lists can be easily eliminated by the second recommendation below.

4. It is recommended that the draft CIG Directive be amended as follows:

a. Change the last sentence of paragraph 3 to read: "It will also coordinate with the Secretary, JIC, as required."

b. In the third line of paragraph 4 delete the words "and to furnish the CIG a list" and substitute the words "including the designation."

 *MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE:

Subject: Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board.

1. Various problems in connection with the Joint Army-Navy Intelligence Studies were discussed at a recent meeting of the Joint Intelligence Committee. It was apparent that the Army and Navy intelligence organizations may not be in a position to meet the requirements of the Joint Staff Planners, because of limitations of personnel, and that it may become necessary to review those requirements in the light of overall intelligence requirements, in order to determine priorities.
2. These and other considerations suggest that the various JANIS problems should be reviewed by the Central Intelligence Group.
3. As the participants in JISPR now include agencies other than the Armed Services, its activities appear to fall within the scope of the National Intelligence Authority, and it is believed that coordination of its work would be more effective if performed under the auspices of the Director of Central Intelligence.
4. It is therefore recommended that the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board be brought under the Director of Central Intelligence for policy supervision; that the Director of Central Intelligence designate a director of the Joint Intelligence Study Publishing Board; and that the Central Intelligence Group undertake a study of the future of JANIS, with a view to making recommendations to the Director of Central Intelligence or to the National Intelligence Authority, as may be appropriate, for a schedule of JANIS papers, a prospectus of their content, determination of what agencies shall participate in the preparation of such papers, and allocation of responsibility to such agencies.
5. Attached for information of your Planning Staff is a memorandum prepared by Lieut. Edward L. Ullman, Executive Secretary of JISPR, entitled "The Future of JANIS".
